STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Payment of Wages Act, 1936, when passed, was recognised to be an experimental piece of legislation During its working a number of defects and difficulties have come to notice. While many of them can be left to be dealt with by comprehensive legislation at a later date, it is considered necessary to remove a few even during war time and the Bill seeks to achieve this object

NEW DELHI;
The 18th October, 1944.

Notes on Clauses

Clause 2.—Definition of "wages"—The definition of "wages" in the existing Act has given rise to much difficulty in interpretation

The phrase "whether conditionally upon the regular attendance, good work or conduct or other behaviour of the person employed, or otherwise" has led to the impression that an employed person is entitled to full wages irrespective of the stipulated outturn This was not the intention and it is proposed to omit this altogether, at the same time making it clear that the "wages" have to be earned under the contract of employment

The revised definition also gets over another difficulty. Previously it was not clear if wages under a profit-sharing scheme which could not be calculated until after profits were known, had none the less to be paid within the "wage period" This practical difficulty is now sought to be overcome

Doubts were expressed whether allowances of the kind given against increased cost of living formed part of 'wages'. The revised definition specially includes such allowances.

Clause 3—Amendment of section 5—The linking of the date of payment with the number of employees has caused difficulties It is affected by factories working either single or double shifts or by a slight change in the number of employees. The main object of the Act is to ensure that wages are paid regularly and this will still be accomplished if the period is uniformly fixed at 10 days as now proposed.

The reference to 'working' day does not adequately cover cases of seasonal factories or factories that close down. The second "working day' may be after the lapse of several months or may never occur. At the same time it is not always practicable, for instance in railway employment, to ensure payment in so short a time as two days.

It is accordingly proposed to substitute the words 'second working' by the word 'third' in sub-section (2) of section 5.

Clause 4—Some judicial decisions on questions of stoppage of increments or reductions, etc., have led to difficulties The Sind Chief Court held some time ago that the temporary reduction of an employee from one step in an incremental scale to another amounted to a 'deduction' within the meaning of the Act. Doubts have also been expressed whether reductions, demotions, etc., by way of disciplinary measures amounted to 'deductions'.

The amendments seek to make the position clearer and provide as follows:—

(a) Where there is an incremental scale, a stoppage of increment and reduction in the incremental scale as disciplinary measures are authorised, but the latter may only be made after notice for such period as is required under the contract of employment for the termination of employment

(b) A diminution of wages by reason of requirement to perform work involving a standard of skill or responsibility lower than that in the previous work, is not a 'deduction'.

Clause 5—Amendment of sub-section (7) of section 8.—Acts or omissions may not be detected for some time after their commission. The present provision requiring that no fine shall be recovered after the expiry of sixty days from the date of the act or commission, therefore, becomes sometimes impracticable It is accordingly proposed that the time should count from the date of detection of the act or omission.

Clause 8—Amendment of section 17.—It is considered necessary to empower an Inspector in some cases to go in appeal against an adverse decision.

Ātma-paricay [Self-introduction]—A collection of Rabindranath's writings of different times giving a retrospective account of his life with reference to his poetry and affording an insigat into his mental evolution. Late in life the poet becomes conscious of a great purpose underlying his life for the fulfilment of which he acted like an instrument in the hands of some superior power beyond his self, giving view to his thoughts in apparently fragmentary and disconnected writings which all found an unity in the mission of his life He is conscious of his shortcomings but he has the satisfaction of saying only what he has thought fit without pandering to the prevailing tastes He was never tired of his surroundings and always actively responded to them with an alert mind and spirit In spite of all distractions he has been able to realise the great mission of his life and has tried to work it out with his limited powers and is grateful for the recognition he has so far received Published by Pulinbihari Sen, Visvabarati, 6-3, Dwarkanath Tagore Lane, Calcutta 1350 sāl or 1943-44 A D (25-5-1943) Pages 127 Double Crown 16mo 1st edition Re 1-8-0 Copies 2,100

72. Rabindranath Tagore—তিন সঙ্গী—

Tin Sangī. [Three Companions] Contains three stories of deep psychological interest entitled "Rabibār", "Ses-Kathā" and "Lyābaretari". The first depicts an artists' love for a girl whom he cannot have owing to a difference of their religious ideals The second depicts how a geologist deeply engaged in work in forests, feels the influence of love after being attracted by a love-lorn girl who however remains true to her faithless lover and leaves the geologist as soon as she becomes aware of his weakness for herself The third story depicts how a great scholar devoted only to research work in laboratory, comes to know what love is on coming into contact with a girl whom he even gives the pledge of marriage, and how at the critical moment when he is required to express his mind before others he tamely goes away in obedience to the call of his overbearing aunt who has so long been ruling him, little caring for the seriousness of the situation in which his beloved has thus been put Published by Pulinbehari Sen, Visvabharati, 6-3, Dwarkanath Tagore Lane, Calcutta 1340 sāl or 1943 44 A D (20-5 1943) Pages 1+143 Demy 8vo 2nd edition Re 1 8 0 Copies 1,100

Bhabisyator Sahitya [FutureLite rature]—Affords a glimpse into the nature of what the literature of future is to be Draws attention to the tendencies and characteristics as also various other traits of modern literature which may indicate the shape of the future literature. Says that modern literature displays extreme self-consciousness but lacks the insight of the genius without which literature of lasting value cannot be produced, and that modern socialist tendencies foreshadow a future socialist literature which however cannot be produced till the present revolutionary age passes and conditions become more settled and favourable. Hindu nā Muslim ?
